Rex vs. L. Heichel.

The charge laid by V Assinger against Louis Heichel of Golden Spike, charging him with the use of certain grain sacks, was heard by Magistrate George B. McLeod, on Thursday last, in Edmonton. During the cross-examination of Assinger by counsel for the defence the Magistrate stopped the case and discharged the accused. The Magistrate stated that he was convinced that the whole matter arose due to the fact that sacks of the two parties had been mixed up, and he felt that the accused did not intend to deprive Assinger of any sacks, and since the accused had also lost some, he likely felt that things about balanced up. He felt the charge should not have been laid. O Becker appeared for the Crown; Geo. J. Bryan for the defence.

A Showcase Case.

A case of interest to those who frequent public places, and of particular interest to those youths who like to indulge in horse play therein, will be heard in an Edmonton court on Tuesday next, the 5th, when Mr. James Christy will be suing a local young man for the price, installed, of the front plate glass of a showcase. It is some time since the glass was broken, and every effort made to effect a settlement came to naught. P. G. Thomson will appear for Mr. Christy, and the latter's witnesses are Elmer Anderson and Hy Trapp.

Boxing and Wrestling.

Stony's fight fans are due for a good evening's sport when Mike Bilinsky of Edmonton brings to Stony his troupe of well-trained athletes on the evening of Friday, Dec. 1st.

The main event is billed as a six-round boxing bout between Pete Jackson (180) and P. Sinner (175).

Two mat champions, Joe Semmook and John Demchuk will wrestle six eight-minute rounds.

The appearance of Philip Sinner, who has been seen in the ring on several occasions in Stony, should bring a good crowd.

Several good boxing prelims are also on the bill. The price of ringside seats has been set at 50c. A dance follows.

Saturday's Phone Meeting.

Considerable discussion took place at the meeting held Saturday afternoon in the Town hall to consider the proposition of taking over the operation of the telephone service in this district.

While several of the speakers expressed the opinion that "something should be done about it," they appeared to be unable to agree on a plan of action.

Will Inflation Benefit?

One of the many results flowing out of the Great War was the development of a narrow nationalism which found expression in many ways and has had a profound effect upon not only national policies but in forms and methods of government. Out of the Great War grew an economic warfare more intense than that which preceded that terrible struggle. That economic war led to the use of tariffs, quotas, and other trade restrictions on a scale hitherto unknown. All nations engaged in it, some reluctantly, but because they were forced into it by the actions of other nations.

As this economic warfare progressed it inevitably led to still another war,—a war of exchange. The value of the currency of one nation rose or fell in relation to the value of the currencies of other nations, and as it rose or fell it directly affected the nations well as the whole financial structure of all, and the ability of one group of people to meet its obligations to another group.

From this it was but a short step to a third form of warfare now being waged,—a war of currencies. Some nations,—most of them,—abandoned the gold standard, but a few still adhere to it. Then began the struggle of the currencies. Abandoning the gold standard was a measure of inflation. The next step was the more or less gradual reduction of the value of national currencies in terms of gold, the object being to raise prices which had fallen to a disastrously low ebb. In other words, policies of inflation were embarked upon.

But always in war, no matter the nature of the struggle, one party or country always endeavors to outdo the other. It is so in physical warfare; it is true in any tariff war. It is equally true in a war of inflation. When one country embarks upon a policy of inflation, even though it be primarily as a matter of domestic concern alone, it immediately has repercussions in other countries. So when one country proceeds with a policy of inflation, and persists in it, sooner or later other countries will follow suit, and, in following suit, will, of course, seek to go other countries "one better."

Whatever may be said in favor of a degree of inflation on the one hand, or deflation on the other, to meet changing economic conditions,—and a country engaging in either the one policy or the other always proceeds on the assumption that inflationary care will be exercised, and the policy fully controlled to prevent it getting out of hand,—the net result invariably is that it does get out of control, and the final stage of affairs is made worse rather than improved, and the process of financial recovery made more difficult and of longer duration, with losses made heavier.

A policy of inflation is being applied in the United States at the present time. As always, President Roosevelt is anxious to keep it within bounds, but there are great and powerful influences at work to carry it far beyond what the President desires and has in mind. Can the situation be controlled? When Congress re-assembles, indications are not lacking that great pressure will be applied to put the printing presses to work turning out billions of paper money, in addition to the present inflationary policy of decreasing the gold value of the dollar. And Congress is still supreme in the United States. It conferred very extensive emergency powers upon the President, giving him almost dictatorial powers, and he will be expected to carry them out. It goes much further than the President and his advisers deem it wise to go.

And Canada cannot be indifferent to or prove immune from the effects of United States policy, whatever it may be. Our trade and other relationships are too closely interwoven, and our financial undertakings, both public and private, so entwined that Canada will be directly affected. Whether we like it or not, Canadian policy must, of necessity, be governed to some extent,—possibly a large extent,—by United States policy in this matter.

Inflation and deflation and their consequences, may be traced throughout the course of history, dating back to the years B.C., and the lessons of history teach us that inflation appears to have generally, if indeed, not always, ended in disaster. There was at first always the intention of control, but the movement usually ended by breaking all bounds. Increased purchasing power through inflation is only temporary; higher prices stimulate over-production and check consumption; new debts appear, and a return to stability is increasingly difficult.

The depression beginning in 1929 was preceded by wild speculation, encouraged and made possible by an expansion of credit, but encouraged and stimulated by installment selling on a scale never before witnessed. Many were the warnings issued at the time this wholesale expansion of credit, and unprecedented installment buying, was in progress. It could be seen by anyone willing to pause and consider that such installment buying,—all based on credit,—could not go on indefinitely; that a point must be reached when where millions of individuals committed to installment payments would reach the end of their purchasing power, having used up all their credit and pledged all their resources. The saturation point was reached late in 1929, and the crash followed.

People had bought land, houses, motor cars, radios, equipment of all kinds, and many luxuries all on the promise to pay, weekly, monthly, yearly installments. The time came when they could make no more commitments, so production stopped, and with its stoppage, millions were thrown out of employment and were thus placed in a position where they could not meet their deferred installment payments. Prices fell, and everybody sustained losses.

Inflation might temporarily raise prices, just as speculation and installment buying,—which, after all, was inflation pure and simple,—did raise prices. But one form of inflation can not overcome the evils caused by another form of inflation.

Currency Of Albania

Is Very Cosmopolitan

Smallest Nation In Balkans Uses Gold Of Other Nations

The tiny kingdom of Albania, smallest in the Balkans, is the only country in that region which still pays its officials in gold, and where one may obtain gold in exchange for paper.

A general grasp of incredulity was noticeable in St. Louis the other day, when the Albanian Bishop Visarion, representing his nation at the international conference for the union of International Friendship through the churches, calmly pulled a fat purse from under his caesack and paid his hotel and other expenses in hard yellow coin.

His Grace explained that Albania, having no national currency of its own, is obliged to pay its officials on the basis of the gold franc. But since that pre-war phenomenon is rare today, English sovereigns, Turkish piastres, Italian lire, and even United States $5 and $10 gold pieces are employed in addition to the old "Napoleons" or "Louis."

Until the United States went off the gold standard, its paper dollar used to be regarded as the most solid currency circulating in the Balkans, and was employed to replace gold as a medium of exchange. Since its drop, however, the Albanians and others have gone back to the precious metal itself.

In all other Balkan countries the governments have confiscated all gold, replacing it by depreciable local paper currency. Heavy penalties are imposed on those found trafficking in gold, or taking foreign exchange out beyond the borders.

THREE ILLS ROUTED

Health Tip From Woman Of 67

"For headache, constipation—rheumatism—I use Kruschen. And since I have used it, I am in very much better health. In fact, I hardly ever wake with those bad headaches and that general feeling of lassitude. Kruschen has helped me beyond words. I am 67 and feel young!"—thus writes Mrs. M. G.

It is reasonable to ask why it is that headache, constipation, and rheumatism all yield so completely to Kruschen? What is the secret of Kruschen's effectiveness against these different complaints? The secret is an open one. It is revealed in the analysis on the bottle—for physicians and everyone else to see. Six vital mineral salts. That is the secret. Each of these six salts has an action of its own. Where one cannot penetrate another can—and does. Stomach, liver, kidneys and digestive tract are all benefited and tuned up to a top-notch condition of efficiency.

New Wrinkle-Proof Fabric

No End To Possibilities Of Discovery States Inventor

A pair of men's trousers that held their creases for six months or longer, and a complete suit of clothing which can be stretched out a foot from the body and then snapped back, were demonstrated in New York by their inventor, Percy Adamson.

"This suit I have on," said Adamson, pulling the buttoned vest out and letting it fly back with a pop, "hasn't been pressed since last spring. 'I had an entire wardrobe made up of the new process fabrics. I made a trip to Europe. Whenever I unpacked, I simply took out my suits, shook them and they were ready to wear. Not a single wrinkle, and the creases stood up in all their pristine splendor."

The inventor pulled up a resilient pants' leg and demonstrated, his socks. The tops, while maintaining an ordinary, innocent appearance were flexible, and there was no need for garters.

Adamson, who was born in the Lancashire, England, textile district and has been in the textile industry all his life, explained that there is no end of the possibilities of his discovery. Clothing for men, women and children already is being manufactured from "rubber" fabrics. The yarn or thread looks like any yarn or thread, so does its fabric. Yet in construction, a newly-developed rubber form, and stretches surprisingly. Adamson brought out a sample of satin and samples of silk, cotton and wool. He pointed out that the amount of lacton in each fabric can be varied at will. The lacton is treated in such a manner that washing as well as pressing will not affect it. Furthermore, the snap will never leave the fabric.

Belgium Closing Four Prisons

Crime Schemes To Have Fallen Off Since War

Crime has fallen off to such an extent in Belgium since the armistice that four of the thirty-one prisons are to be closed. Prison officials attribute this state of affairs to the leniency of the courts and the operation of the first-offenders act. They say also that minors who formerly went to prison now go to the reformatory, which is not listed as a prison.

Fame Of Canadian Poultry Once More Demonstrated At World's Congress Held In Rome

Canada's world-wide fame for efficiency and the high quality of her poultry has once more been fully demonstrated. With the return from the Fifth World's Poultry Congress, which was held at Rome, Italy, P. C. Elford, Dominion Poultry Husbandmen, official co-delegate with W. A. Brown, Chief of the Poultry Division, Dominion Live Stock Branch, some specially interesting information is being obtained with regard to this historical meeting.

Canada was the only exhibitor of live birds having government official records, a fact which created widespread interest, visitors from all parts of the world arriving at the Congress exhibit demanding to be shown the birds with the Government certificates.

Canada was represented by a small but attractive educational exhibit and by a number of registered R.O.P. and exhibition bred birds. The live bird exhibit was being prepared, and because the birds were first promised by the Canadian National Poultry Record Association, it was considered better business not to sell these birds, but to donate them to persons, institutions or governments where they would do the most good for Canada. Among the birds that were donated was a trio of Chantrelles to His Holiness the Pope, several trios to the Italian Government and a trio to the British Consul General in Rome.

There were also two official delegates already mentioned, and in addition many Canadians attended in their private capacity. The educational exhibit told the story of Canada's national breeding policy; illustrations showing poultry instruction in schools and with boys' and girls' clubs, farmers' flocks, the interior of a poultry laboratory, poultry culling and selection, R.O.P. flocks, laying contests and registration, marketing, standardization, grading, etc. The attractiveness and the completeness of the story made the Canadian exhibit a very popular one.

One remarkable point about the Congress was that it marked the re-opening of the Market of Trajanus after a period of 2,000 years. During all that time the market-place had been lying buried among the ancient ruins of Rome, and twenty centuries ago had been the popular produce market where the Roman citizens purchased their eggs and poultry from the farmers. These ruins have been dug out and repaired and, significantly enough the reopened market was first used for the educational and live bird exhibits of the Fifth World's Poultry Congress. It was here in the Capital that the cackling of the sacred geese prevented the capture of the ancient Roman elated by the barbarians so that the historic setting of the Market for the Congress was especially appropriate. However, the six floors and the numerous stairways of old stone steps were not the most convenient for an exhibit of this kind, nor the most advantageous for the attendants who had to climb five or six stories from one exhibit to another.

The Congress sessions were held in the building of the Agricultural Institute, and were attended by delegates from practically every European country and from Japan, Palestine, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, the United States and Canada.

These congresses are the tri-annual meetings of the World's Poultry Science Association, and previous Antonio Ghigi of Italy was selected Congress director and its next president.

The delegates were given every opportunity for sight-seeing, which included Rome and its environs. Naples, Pompeii, Vesuvius, etc. On two afternoons, sections of Italy were shown where swamps had been drained and the land reclaimed for agricultural purposes. The stupendous work done by the Mussolini Government was made apparent by a visit to places such as Littoria, where 65,000 acres ten years ago was a malarial swamp covered at times with several feet of water, are today reclaimed land shaped into farms. A part of this is devoted to cultivated farms inhabited by a happy population, with the death rate from malarial fever almost non-existent.

Funds Are Lacking

Proposed Establishment Of Central Library Agency Off For Present
The Carnegie Corporation of New York stands ready to establish a central library agency for Canada, at a cost of more than $100,000 for the first five years, if guarantees are forthcoming that the project will receive adequate financial support from Canada at the end of the five-year period.

So stated John Ridington, University of British Columbia librarian, who returned from a conference in Chicago with Dr. Frederick Keppel, president of the Carnegie Corporation.

The scheme was temporarily abandoned. Mr. Ridington said, when he could give no assurance that either the federal government or provincial governments would continue the grants. Discussions will be resumed next year after further investigation in Canada.

The agency would be established in Ottawa and "would act as a focal point for all library activities in the Dominion. It would be a co-ordinating and educational force and do bibliographical work," the university librarian said.

Nearly 40,000 People Attend Forestry Our Lectures Last Season
Nearly 40,000 people attended the lectures on the Canadian Forestry Association Tree Planting Car during the past season, according to the report of Alan B. Brown.

The car left Regina March 25, and travelled for four months over the C.N.R. lines and then for three months over the C.P.R. lines.

It visited 128 centres, at which 256 lectures were given. Often 200 people crowded into the car to hear the lecture and see the movies, scenes from every province in the Dominion, and beautifully colored slides from actual photographs taken in Saskatchewan, showing home beautification.

One hour of actual lecturing on tree planting and its benefits, particularly for shelter belts, home, street and public building beautification as well as for churches, cemeteries was given. Question periods followed each lecture. Invariably 50 or more especially interested listeners took part in the resultant discussion.

Civic authorities were assisted with plans for civic tree planting and beautification. Similar assistance was given to many farmers whose grounds were visited by the car staff.

Four hundred and sixty letters of inquiry for information were answered, in addition to personal contacts.

School authorities and teachers declared holidays that children might attend. Special question period added to children's lectures for benefit of older pupils. Hints and assistance given for planting of trees and shrubs on school grounds.

Many orchards were found, springing up as a result of protection afforded by shelter belts which in turn had been inspired by earlier tours of the forestry car.

The car returned to Regina, October 25. Mileage covered was 2,217 miles.

Express Thanks

Saskatchewan Wheat Pool Delegation Grateful For Assistance Given
On behalf of their former organization, the delegates of the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool at Regina, expressed deep appreciation to the people beyond this province who have given assistance to the drought-stricken areas of Southern Saskatchewan. A motion of thanks introduced by two delegates from the affected areas was adopted unanimously.

As it was pointed out, the other provinces of Canada, from coast to coast, had come to the relief of thousands of people by successive crop failures, by supplying them with cars of fruit vegetables, clothing, etc., realizing what this help meant to southern Saskatchewan people in a period of great distress, the delegates wished to make known how keenly they appreciated the action of their fellow-countrymen.

Hunted Cattle For Hides

For 300 Years Argentine Ranchers Cared Little For The Meat

For 300 centuries, says the National Geographic Magazine, man's chief occupation among the gauchos, or cattle ranchers of the Argentine pampa was the pursuit of wild cattle. Stupendous numbers were slain merely for hides and tallow, as was true in California when Dams saw it and wrote "Two Years Before the Mast."

Besides the many hides sent to Spain and smuggled out to other lands, countless thousands were used on the pampa for making clothing, huts, tents, sleds and even fences. Cattle were so cheap that a rider would kill one merely to cut meat enough for his lunch. One Argentine historian says soldiers used to shoot a beef so that they might tether horses to its horns, there being no trees.

And it was easy to capture them. A band of gauchos simply surrounded the herd. Then each man, armed with a long-handled pica, or lance, with a sharp blade like a half moon hamstrung as many animals as possible before the herd broke away. This done, the gauchos dismounted, skinned the fallen animals, and abandoned the meat to carrion birds and wild dogs.

Hides took the place of money. When, by the treaty of Utrecht, England obtained the sole right to import slaves into the River Plate country, she stipulated that the blacks should be paid for with hides and tallow.

From hunting cattle mostly for their hides, the folk of the pampa turned by 1830 to the export of dried beef. This went to feed slaves in the West Indies, where their labor was then building up the tobacco and sugar industries. "Jerky" (salt beef) is still made by the ton in the meat drying sheds on the big estancias, and sometimes huge racks of it, like haystacks, are piled in the open air.

Chalk Fall Creates Island

No. One Hurt In Cliff Slide On English Coast

A new island appeared in the English Channel between Dover and Deal when thousands of tons of chalk at Larklands Point peeled away from the cliff and hurtled into the sea with a great roar.

Collapse of the cliff was the greatest fall on the English coast for many years. At high tide the chalk forms an island 300 feet from the mainland. No one was hurt in the slide.

Cow At Banquet

Brampton Honors Jersey Cow Who Broke World's Record

"Brampton Basilia," a Jersey who has just broken the world's record for milk and butterfat production in a single year, was guest of honor at a banquet held at Brampton, Ont. Her owner, D. O. Bull, started to thank the ladies of the Bnelgrove's Women's institute for providing the repast.

"Moo—" interrupted "Brampton Basilia." Mr. Bull didn't finish his speech.

A half-pint of milk in bottles, part of the enormous output of 18,102 pounds of milk which "Basilia" produced in a 365 days' test, was given to each guest.

Among the guests was Hon. Robert Weir, Federal Minister of Agriculture.

Placing The Blame

Not Generally Known That A Woman Introduced The Shift Collar

When men curse the inventor of stiff collars, they are cursing a woman—though doubtless few of them know it. She was an American, Mrs. Hannah Montague, the wife of a blacksmith. She washed her husband's shirts—and in doing so noticed that the collar was nearly always more dirty than the shirt itself. So, with a sudden inspiration, she cut off the collars and put bands round the necks. Then she starched the collars. They stayed clean longer. Mr. Montague was agreeably surprised. He told friends. . . . That was a century ago. A tablet on a house in Troy, New York, still bears witness to the memory of the inventor of stiff collars.

The first man to use a microscope to study causes of disease is believed to have been the Jesuit priest, Athanasius Kircher, who lived in the seventeenth century.

Source of Leather Supplies United Kingdom Taking The Lead In This Class of Manufacture

For generations, the United Kingdom has been an outstanding source of leather supplies for manufacturers of leather goods abroad and especially those in the principal European centres of the trade. At the same time leather goods manufactured in the United Kingdom have enjoyed a world-wide reputation for quality of workmanship and materials.

A number of influences in recent years have contributed to stimulate a natural development, namely, the increasing manufacture of a wider diversity of leather goods in the United Kingdom itself. In certain branches of leather goods manufacture, notably saddlery, travel goods, belts, purses, pocket books and so on, Great Britain has always held a predominant position. Prior to 1914, however, British manufacturing production followed traditional lines and restricted itself to a somewhat narrow range. Few factories in the United Kingdom specialized in the production of such articles as ladies' handbags and the almost limitless variety of leather "fancy goods." That condition, largely as a result of the general course of economic developments since the World War, has now been entirely changed.

The outstanding characteristic of the British leather and leather goods industry today is its amazing diversity. Nowhere is this more evident than in the growth in size and scope of the leather and leather goods section of the British Industries Fair. Here every type of leather and leather goods may be seen—from boot and shoe leathers, book-binding and fancy leathers, up to every leather, leather goods and so on to advertising novelties, handbags, belts, dog equipment, dressing cases, fancy leather goods, imitation leather goods, solid leather goods, picnic cases, purses, razor straps, saddlery, sports bags, leather coats and travelling requisites. Indeed, the trade buyer need go no further than the 1934 Fair to find leather goods of every conceivable kind and in a variety of designs unsurpassed anywhere. To this may be added the fact that considerable credit, because production methods have been overhauled and costs have been drastically cut, British prices today are astonishingly low.

Every known kind of leather is used in one or other of the British manufactures today—from waterproof sole leather, having the unique qualities given by tanning with British oak bark, to African python and other reptile-skin leathers, patent leathers and, of course, Moroccan, which is obtained largely from the British East Indies. Sixty per cent. of the leather used in Great Britain is produced within the British Isles, a large proportion of it coming from Canada. In becoming a predominant centre of more varied leather goods manufacture, and especially in developing its range of travel and fancy leather goods, Great Britain has attracted designers and style experts from all the leading Continental countries. Not only so, but, within the last few years, increasing numbers of Continental manufacturers have opened leather goods factories in Great Britain for the production, there, of their own distinctive goods.

In this way a cosmopolitan wealth of style, design and ingenuity have been combined with the traditional high quality of British craftsmanship and materials. As a result, the entire British leather industry has been revitalized. The scope of its resources is now unequalled anywhere.

Canadian buyers of leather goods of all kinds who wish to buy to the best advantage and keep abreast of the latest developments in design and production cannot afford to miss the 1934 British Industries Fair which opens in London on the 19th of February.

Canadian Beef Preferred

Store Cattle Bring Good Price On Scottish Markets

Canadian store cattle occupy a favorable spot in Scottish markets and invariably sell at a slight premium over Irish cattle. A. J. Tingley, assistant trade commissioner in Scotland, writes in an article for the Commercial Journal.

It is realized, however, Mr. Tingley says, the Canadian market, like the market in Scotland, prefers young, well-bred cattle and, unfortunately, the surplus of these for export does not provide a sufficient number to ship only this class.

Until Canadian breeding generally is on a higher level, some of the rougher class will find a way to the British markets. Too much stress, however, cannot be placed upon the necessity for Canadian farmers to continue to improve their breeding herds, the commissioner writes, and for shippers to send over only young bullocks of good class and quality. The type of animal in most demand is a young bullock approximating two years of age, from eight to nine cwt. in weight and of good class and breeding, the writer says. Aberdeen or Shorthorn crosses are preferred, he writes.

Running For Centuries

Clock In England Seems Capable Of Going Indefinitely

The clock in the Parish Church at Ryde, England, was started in 1515, was finished in 1560, and has been running ever since, except for the few times it was stopped for repairs. A well-known firm of clock makers now has the contract to keep it going and it seems capable of running indefinitely. This is said to be the only clock in the world having a pendulum swinging through the roof and into the body of the church. For years its 1,500 pounds swung over the choir before it was discovered to be supported by only a two-inch rusty nail.

Twenty wild animal preserves, covering 200,000 square miles, have been established in British Africa.

PAUL IN EPHESUS

Golden Text: "Blessed are they that have been persecuted for righteousness sake."—Matthew 5:10.
Lesson: Acts 18:19-20, 28.
Devotional Reading: Isaiah 40:18-22.

Explanations and Comments

Preaching In The Synagogue And The School Of Tyrannus, 19:8-10.—On his third missionary journey, Paul came to Ephesus, where he followed his customary method of speaking first to the Jews, and then to the Greeks. For three months in the synagogue he reasoned and persuaded as to the things concerning the Kingdom—the subject of Jesus' teaching. But instead of heeding his message, the Jews hardened their hearts, and some of them even spoke evil of "the Way" (used as a synonym for Christianity; recall Acts 9:2). Paul was obliged to break with the Jews, leaving the synagogue for the lecture-room of Tyrannus, where many of them followed him. Tyrannus was probably a Gentile who had a school of philosophy. Paul may have seemed to the Ephesians to be one of the wandering professors of philosophy who were so numerous in the early Empire. In the lecture-room of Tyrannus from eleven to four, after Tyrannus had finished his lectures, Paul proclaimed unto his hearers Jesus the Christ.

For two years Paul continued his preaching in the school of Tyrannus, and "all that dwell in Asia heard the word of the Lord, both Jews and Greeks." The word of the Lord in Ephesus were the other cities of the Roman Province of Asia (on the western shore of Asia Minor). During these two years were probably founded the others of the Seven Churches of Asia of Revelation 1:4, 11.

Forty years after this Paul in his famous letter to Trajan will say of Christianity: "For the contagion of this superstition has not only spread through cities, but also through villages and country places."—A. T. Robertson.

Special Cures, verses 11, 12.—Sick people were cured by mere contact with handkerchiefs or aprons which had touched Paul's body, we are told. "The whole subject bristles with difficulties, since we do not even know how far Paul countenanced the magical cases here mentioned. That Paul was conscious of being on occasion the medium of supernatural gifts we know from his own witness (Romans 15:18; 2 Corinthians 12:12). But that he would surely have discouraged such unethical and magical methods, so alien to faith as he understood it, is a fact. What, without his knowledge, the zeal of fresh converts and others conveyed to the sick in body and mind objects which, having been in contact with his person, had, relative to the crude superstition of the time, the appearance of the recipients, a healing value. What exactly Paul thought in the matter does not know."—Barlett.

"Religion has to steer between a superstition that sees the magically supernatural everywhere, and a materialistic realism that sees God nowhere."—Henry Churchill King.

Tests New Diving Bell

Fantastic Robot Of U.S. Navy Goes To Great Depths

The United States navy has completed preliminary tests of a fantastic robot diving bell, represented as able to plunge into the ocean, pick up a crane or a twenty-five-foot locomotive dome, and carry workers into depths heretofore beyond their reach in salvaging submarines and saving lives. The pear-shaped, two-armed contrivance, invented by E. J. Brennan, of Seattle, is radically different in dimensions, outlines, grappling hooks and lights from ordinary diving apparatus.

The device has been manipulated more than 800 feet under water and tested to withstand pressure deeper than 1,500 feet, in contrast to the 100-foot operations of average divers in old-style equipment.

The advantages of the device, the inventor says, are the delicacy of touch of the grappling iron—they have been used to drive tacks and play cards, yet they have tons of crushing force—the great depths to which it can descend and the unique lighting system, effective at greater depths, he claims, than any other known.

Germany Protects Titles

Marriage Involving Money In Exchange For Title Not Recognized

The cabinet took steps to put an end to title-hunting on the preserves of the German nobility.

The cabinet adopted by the cabinet declares any marriage concluded after November 9 that involved the exchange of a title for a certain monetary consideration null and void.

By this law, the government hoped to eradicate the abuses of sham marriages and adoptions which have become rampant since the war, especially among the impoverished German nobility.

Invented Anti-Aircraft Gun

Polish Prisoner Escaped Death Sentence In Interesting War Officials

Sentenced to death for murder in Warsaw, Poland, a man has been saved from execution so that War Office officials may study his invention, an anti-aircraft gun. The day before he was to be executed he managed through the prison governor to intercept war officials in a model of his device. They recognized the value of the weapon, which is expected to revolutionize air defense, and are keeping the details secret.

Indigestion, Gas

Mrs. Elizabeth Stewart of P. S. Caroline St., Hamilton, Ont., says: "I had indigestion most all the while, and was constantly bloated with gas. I have had no stomach trouble in years." All druggists. Write Dr. Pierce's Clinic, Buffalo, N. Y.

ADVISED OF ROOSEVELT NOW IN OPPOSITION

Philadelphia.—James P. Warburg, who has been regarded as unofficial economic adviser to President Roosevelt, expressed his "reluctant" opposition to some of the methods of the president's monetary policies.

"What I reluctantly oppose," said the New York banker who was financial adviser to the American delegation to the world economic conference, "are some of the methods by which he seeks to attain his goal, some of the misconceptions that seem to becloud his purpose, and the disregard of the accumulated experience of centuries manifested by all too many of his advisers."

Warburg made a surprise address at the American Academy of Political Science in aligning himself with Dr. O. M. W. Sprague, recently resigned special adviser to the treasury, in seeking to arouse public opinion against the president's monetary policies.

At the same meeting Prof. Irving Fisher, of Yale University, said in an address the monetary policy of President Roosevelt "is substantially right."

Warburg expressed doubt that as a practical matter there can be any such thing as a dollar of constant purchasing power," which President Roosevelt espoused in his message to the economic conference last July, and the banker repeated for the first time that he had resigned from the American delegation after the President's message had been received in London.

He said he did not let his resignation become known at that time because he was "at it hopeful of being able to convince the president that it would be a mistake to continue his policy of monetary uncertainty and experimentation."

United Kingdom Sees Activity In Industry

Increase In Railway Traffic And Other Improvement Noted

London, Eng.—From several directions have come indications of the United Kingdom's steady advance in greater industrial activity.

All four of Britain's great railway groups issued traffic figures showing considerable gains over those for the corresponding week last year. A "buy British" train will start early in the new year on a tour covering the whole southern district and part of the northern district of England, calling at 60 important commercial centres.

Savings banks reported greater business and revenue from amusement taxes was said to have risen.

A great steel firm will begin in 30 miles of steel pipe for Jerusalem, which, from the days of King Herod, has depended for its water supply on wells and springs. Another firm has received a contract worth more than $1,000,000 to equip telephone exchanges in Lithuania.

Wheat Carryover

Expect To Effect Reduction By End Of Crop Year

Ottawa, Ont.—Canada will probably be able to reduce its wheat carryover by the end of the present crop year July 31 next. United States will doubtless be successful in materially reducing its wheat stores by that date. This was forecast by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics in a report issued recently.

Australia will have a crop this year of possibly 165,000,000 bushels. Last year it was 210,000,000. Argentina may raise 200,000,000 bushels. Add the production estimates of the four countries together and the total is considerably below a year ago.

On the other hand, Europe has grown more wheat. The latest estimate places the total European crop at 1,645,000,000 bushels this year. Last year it was 1,480,000,000. The heavy European crop is limiting exports to those countries.

For reward wheat, Hamilton Bros., of Lethbridge, Alberta, had the finest exhibit and Axel Berghqvist, of Sanford, Man., captured honors in the Minimum class.

Western Canada entrants topped all others in the white oats section of the seed grains in sacks at the Royal Winter Fair. H. H. Taylor, of Lashburn, Sask., led a list of 26, while second and third places fell to Lester Ball, Edmonton South, Alberta, and H. C. Neufeld, Codette, Sask., respectively.

A. Griffin, of Brooks, Alberta, annexed premier honors in the field beans (small white division).

Durum wheat, entered by John H. Turvis, of Capital City, Man., was considered the best sack of grain in its class at the fair.

In the spring wheat section, the Smith Farms, Limited, Lethbridge, Alberta, H. G. Neufeld, Codette, Sask., and Walter Margaretson, Paynton, Sask., were awarded first, second and third, respectively. Two other western Canada entrants, Wm. J. Rigby, Wembley, Alberta, and Stephen C. Harrington, Marwayne, Alberta, won fourth and fifth places.

Germany Asks Return Of Saar Territory

Greatest Obstacle To Accord With France States Hitler

Paris, France.—A government spokesman said that the French door is wide open to Chancellor Hitler, of Germany, if he cares to proffer an olive branch.

This authoritative invitation was made as a comment on an interview with the German chief by Fernand de Brion, a close friend of Premier, Edouard Daladier, published in the newspaper, Le Matin.

The interview quoted Hitler as offering peace and security to France in return for equality for Germany.

Le Matin said Hitler visualized the greatest obstacle to accord between France and Germany as the question of the Saar Territory, now held by France. The French government spokesman said, "the question is whether Chancellor Hitler will submit to the supervision of the armaments we know he is building."

"I am convinced," said Hitler, "that once the question of the Saar—which is German land—has been settled, there is nothing, absolutely nothing, which can oppose Germany to France."

Despite Germany's desire to avoid war, which the chancellor said "would settle nothing and only make worse the state of the world," Hitler reiterated his intention not to return to the League of Nations.

"It has aggravated instead of clearing up the misunderstandings of the world," he said.

Dr. MacMurphy Retires

Has Been Head Of Child Welfare For Last Thirteen Years

Ottawa, Ont.—A kindly and aggressive personality in child welfare work, Dr. Helen MacMurphy has been retired from the Department of Pensions and National Health. Since 1920 she has been chief of the division of child welfare in Ottawa. She is taking up her residence in Toronto.

Last summer Dr. MacMurphy made a notable speech in Winnipeg before the Federated Women's Institutes of Canada on "The Mother, the Children and the New World Order." It is a stirring address which was later circulated in printed form throughout the country.

Dr. MacMurphy has written some 25 books and pamphlets. She graduated from the University of Toronto in 1901 and did post graduate work in famous hospitals of the United States. As head of the Child Welfare division here, she was energetic in the prevention of infantile paralysis.

Likely To Be Ignored

No Comment Made On Outburst By British Labor Member

London, Eng.—Apparently nothing more will be heard of the occurrence in the House of Lords as parliament opened when John McGovern, fiery Labor leftwinger, burst out in front of the King and Queen and the assembled nobility of England, at the conclusion of the speech from the throne, with a denunciation of the peers and peeresses as "parasites" living on the wealth created by the people "while the people starve."

The House of Commons adjourned debate on the address in reply to the speech from the throne without any reference to the incident being heard in the House.

Motorists From Vancouver To East Claim They Beat Train

Barrie, Ont.—Driving day and night on their trip from Vancouver, two youthful Barrie motorists claim they made faster time than the fast transcontinental trains.

The youths, Vernon R. Taylor and Douglas Campbell, arrived here Tuesday night and said they covered the 3,397 miles in an elapsed time of 108 hours and 71 hours actual driving time. A letter they mailed in Vancouver had not been delivered in Barrie when they arrived.

A PICTURESQUE SOCIETY WEDDING IN INDIA

One of the most picturesque weddings to take place in India was formulated at the Church of the Redemption, New Delhi, when Major Richard Travers Lawrence, M.C., married Miss Elizabeth Margaret Addison. The bridegroom, a former A.D.C. to the Viceroy of India, is the private secretary to His Excellency the Governor of the Punjab, while his bride is the daughter of Major-General G. H. Addison, C.B., C.M.G., D.S.O., and Mrs. Addison. Our picture shows the happy bride and groom leaving after the ceremony, which was attended by the Viceroy of India and the Countess of Willingdon.

Russian Plane Wrecked

Fourteen Including Chief Pilot And Mechanic Reported Killed

Moscow, Russia.—A despatch from Kharkov said the newly-constructed aeroplane, K-7, said to be the largest aeroplane for overland flying in the world, crashed there, killing 14 persons.

The dead were reported to include the chief pilot and mechanic and several Kharkov aviation officials, but beyond these bare facts no details were given. The craft was a six-motored monoplane without the orthodox fuselage.

Instead, all accommodations for luggage and fuel space, as well as controls, were in the wings. Only a slight framework of steel composed the structure on which the rudder was anchored.

The great aeroplane's capacity was designed to carry 128 persons, including its crew. It was designed with sleeping accommodations for 64 persons. It was commissioned only last week.

Will Visit Canada

Lord Baden-Powell, Head Of Boy Scout Movement To Tour Dominion

Ottawa, Ont.—Announcement of a visit to Canada in September and October, 1934, by Lord Baden-Powell, world head of the Boy Scout Movement, was made by His Excellency the Earl of Bessborough, Chief Scout for Canada, at the semi-annual meeting of the executive committee of the Canadian General Council of the Boy Scouts Association. Lord Baden-Powell will be accompanied by Lady Baden-Powell, world chief Girl Guide.

The two leaders will meet Scouters and Guides, and review Boy Scouts and Girl Guides at various points across the Dominion. At the conclusion of the tour they will sail from Vancouver for Australia.

Makes Britain's Task Hard

International Relations Affected By Exaggerated Reports States Premier

London, Eng.—In the House of Commons, while making his speech when the House re-opened, Prime Minister MacDonald referred to what he described as a very unbalanced attack by the opposition against private armament firms in Britain, in which it had been charged Britain supplied one-third of the total export trade in armaments.

That was an exaggeration of the greatest character, said the Prime Minister, "which becomes almost fantastic."

"Exaggerated and disturbing statements of this kind," said the Prime Minister, "only make more difficult the task of this country in international relations."

DISARMAMENT CONFERENCE TO TAKE RECESS

Geneva, Switzerland.—Formal work of the world disarmament conference was suspended until mid-January, by a vote of its steering committee, to permit diplomatic negotiations aimed at saving the parity and getting Germany back.

The committee accepted unanimously a statement by Arthur Henderson, British chairman of the conference, that there shall be "parallel and supplementary effort between the various states and the full use of diplomatic machinery conducted energetically to advance in every possible way the work of the conference."

It was learned that France particularly is inclined to draw a parallel between the political positions of Germany, which withdrew from the discussions last month, and Japan, and is convinced that disarmament efforts, to succeed, must be of universal scope. In this British delegates were said to concur.

The full negotiations, it was learned, will be directed toward rebuilding a Franco-British joint policy and then be extended to Italy and finally to Germany.

It was authoritatively stated that Great Britain and France, without agreeing on details, had already reached an understanding on their expected common policy based on a principle that they will not be influenced by any German "threat." Premier Mussolini, of Italy, who is known to have suggested a four-power parity in Italy, was pointed to as a possible mediator between France and Britain on the one hand and Germany on the other.

Charges Canada Delays Agreement With Russia

British Labor Member Makes Statement In House Of Commons

London, Eng.—"It is atrocious that Canada should prevent Britain from entering into a new trade agreement with Russia," declared J. Batey, Labor member for Spennymoor, during debate in the House of Commons on the address in reply to the speech from the throne.

Batey argued the long delay in concluding negotiations for a new pact with Russia was because of Canadian protests against the import of Russian timber to Britain, which Canada contend is against the spirit of the Ottawa trade agreement.

Will Visit Prisons

Secretary Of Social Service Council To Investigate Conditions

Winnipeg, Man.—Armed with blank authority from the Dominion government to investigate conditions in Canadian penal institutions, Rev. J. Phillips Jones, Toronto, general secretary of the Social Service Council of Canada, was in Winnipeg recently.

He will inspect Stony Mountain penitentiary in Manitoba and later will travel west to visit Prince Albert and New Westminister, B.C. penitentiaries.

Dr. Jones has already inspected Kingston, Ont., penitentiary. His credentials entitle him to question prisoners. He has held ministerial charges at Winnipeg, Calgary and Lethbridge.

Broadcasts on School Festival Work.

By request of Central Alberta Association for School and Musical Festivals, a one-hour broadcast has been arranged from station CKUA (University of Alberta) for teachers and children interested in School Festival work. The aim of the broadcast is to help teachers by giving them expert training in chorus singing, dramatization and recitation.

There will be ten broadcasts on Saturday mornings from 10.30 to 11.30, beginning Saturday next, Dec. 2nd. The first half hour each Saturday will be devoted to music under the direction of Vernon Barford. The second half hour, arranged by Mrs. N. W. Haynes, will be given to direction of dramatization, and training in verse speaking. Dial CKUA at 10.30.

Farmer Controls Cost.

"The cost of producing crops is at all times a very important consideration," observes E. S. Hopkins, Dominion Field Husbandman. "Return values are more or less controlled by the law of Supply and Demand or by other prevailing conditions, and the producer has very little influence upon the price he will receive for his product. He has, however, some control over his cost of production and the economy with which he produces his crop may mean the difference between profit and loss on that crop. In times of depression and low prices this is doubly important. If profits are to be maintained when prices are low costs must be measured accordingly."

Sun Letter Box.

[The Sun takes no responsibility for opinions expressed by correspondents.]

Editor Sun: Having made a careful study of present world conditions, I am in a position to say that this depression in which we are now so deeply involved will eventually lead us to common sense and civilization.

I say civilization, why? because we are no more civilized than the wildest savage in the heart of the mysterious Africa, and which I endeavor to prove to you.

These so-called savages have a sufficient amount to eat, at least I have never heard of one starving in the midst of plenty, none of them freeze to death, because they have too much to wear.

Their sick are cured almost as quickly and as well as ours in comparison to our advanced surgery and science.

Our poor unfortunate civilized brothers must tramp the streets on empty hungry stomachs, not because their isn't enough food, but for the simple reason that we lack common sense in the proper distribution of food articles.

Look at the present conditions as you see them; do you call that civilization?

Far from it, its the greatest baffling crime which we have today.

Politicians, parliamentarians, professors spend too much time on raising tariffs, and borrowing money.

What we need are statesmen, not politicians who sit in on World Conferences and gaze at each other, not knowing what to do, who are only interested in their fabulous salary and how to increase them.

Until we get over greed and hoarding we shall not be civilized.

We have advanced too fast mechanically to keep time with the proper distribution of manufacture and eatable article.

Our civilization as it stands today is a camouflage behind which the basest of ideas are planned and executed.

If our leaders of nations would spend more time on necessary things for the benefit of humanity instead of spending years in planning and spending fortunes in building armaments as the cannon, and other implements of death for the destruction of humanity; but that is perfectly all right, we are civilized and as christians, have been taught too much brotherhood.

ALBERTA'S OPPORTUNITY

British Bacon Market

For the first time in history the World's Greatest Bacon Market has granted a definite quota to Canadian Bacon Producers, under Controlled imports to Assure a Steady Market. Canada's quota is 280,000,000 pounds annually.

The Key to This Market Is Quality

Alberta was second in 1932 among all provinces in total hog marketings, but only eight hogs in every 100 marketed were suitable for the British trade.

Not More Hogs, but Better Hogs

What is needed is not greater numbers, but a greater proportion of the Select Bacon Type required by the British Market.

Policies to Encourage Production of High Quality Bacon Hogs Suitable for Overseas, have been adopted by the Alberta Department of Agriculture in co-operation with the Federal Government, Railways and Packers. These include bonusing and exchange of off-type sows by the farmers for selected gilts from the packing plants.

An "Old Favorites" Contest.

Our attention has been drawn to an interesting Contest just launched by the Family Herald and Weekly Star. $1500.00 are offered in Cash Prizes to those most successfully solving a set of picture puzzles.

Each puzzle picture illustrates the title of an "Old Favorite" song, the object of the contest being to name each one of them correctly. A book featuring 1600 old Favorite Song titles has been compiled by the publishers. This book contains all of the songs which the puzzle pictures illustrate and a copy is given to every active contestant as an aid. The pictures are very cleverly drawn and provide interesting entertainment to those taking part. The nature of the Contest itself, as the name implies, brings back to mind those old familiar tunes which never seem to grow old and which recall memories of those happy days when they were the current musical hits.

Any of our readers will find it well worth while dropping a line to the Family Herald and Weekly Star, at Montreal, for full details of this Contest which will be gladly sent to anyone interested, along with a sample copy of the paper.
